

Girl gangs and motors

Quentin Tarantino talks about his latest obsessions

Dirty money

The casualties of Canada's new oil rush

Beautiful, clever, mad

What's in store
at the London Design Festival

With this issue
Telegraph flash
Your guide to new season

6 GRANDMATERIA BY GALLERY LIBBY SELLERS

The former Design Museum curator launches Grandmateria, a group show of specially commissioned pieces from emerging designers including Stuart Haygarth, Julia Lohmann and Gero Grundmann, Peter Marigold (shown) and Moritz Waldmeyer. September 19 to October 14 at Gallery Libby Sellers, 1-5 Exhibition Road, London SW7 (07774-113813; libbysellers.com).

7 TRASH LUXE The former Icon magazine editor Marcus Fairs has taken a make-do-and-mend approach with his Trash Luxe exhibition at Liberty. See designers including Ineke Hans, who makes furniture from bandages, plaster and polystyrene (shown); and Paul Cockledge, who creates spectacular lights out of found materials such as vending machine cups. September 20-30 at Liberty, Regent Street, London W1 (020-7734 1234; liberty.co.uk).

8 MAARTEN BAAS: SCULPT SERIES The young Dutch master – best known for his burnt Smoke range of furniture for Moooi – is having a solo show at the Carpenters Workshop Gallery. Baas's new collection is a series of oversized wonky furniture pieces called Sculpt (shown). A huge cupboard that looks like solid wood is actually sheet metal with walnut veneer. Until October 6 at the Carpenters Workshop Gallery, 2 Michael Road, London SW6 (020-7384 2211; cwgdesign.com).

9 COCKPIT ARTS DEPTFORD For this weekend only, 65 designer-makers open their studios to the public offering an opportunity to buy directly from them. See new bowls by Jonathan Wade (shown); nature-inspired ceramic wall pieces by Katie Bonham; and home accessories by Becky Oldfield. From 11am until 6pm today and tomorrow at Cockpit Arts Deptford, 18-22 Creekside, London SE8 (020-7419 1959; cockpitarts.com).

10 THE BRITISH SOUL OF MOROSO The hot Italian brand opens its first London showroom with new pieces by its four British designers: Tom Dixon, Ron Arad, Ross Lovegrove and Doshi Levien (shown). From Tuesday at 22-24 St Giles High Street, London WC2 (moroso.it).

11 DESIGNERS BLOCK LONDON The place for edgy creations by up-and-coming designers, including Cambridge-based Studiomold (shown), Karen Ryan, Matthew Plummer-Fernandez and Charlie Davidson. Don't miss the Liquid Glass Live event where Designers Block exhibitors from the past 10 years will

